Our Salvaged Old Growth Redwood shakes and shingles are appropriate for historical restoration of old homes and remodels. They are appropriate for lasting functional, architectural elements for new homes of any style; Victorian, Traditional, Rustic, Arts & Crafts to Contemporary.

Redwood shingles are sawn wood tiles with smooth back and front sides used for roofing and siding. Fifteen different stock patterns and custom sizes available. Three standard shingle sizes include - the Five X at 16 (406mm); the Perfection at 18 (457mm); and the Royal shingle at 24 (610mm).

Flat grain and limited sapwood permitted for this grade, typically used for the underlying layer when double-coursing (applying two layers).

Redwood shakes are traditionally hand split on one or both sides depending on shake style. We offer hand split and sawn shakes for roof and siding applications. Hand split shakes have an irregular rustic texture that is used for rustic and Craftsman style structures. Shakes are A rated with cap sheeting and B rated without.

Hollywood (or Imperial) Shakes - This 24 shake is hand split on the face and resawn on the backside. Hollywood is cut from clear heartwood. Three thicknesses are available: Medium 1/2 butt; Heavy 3/4 - 1 butt; and Jumbo 1 1/2 - 2 butt.

Tapersawn Shakes - These are a hybrid of a shake and shingle, same taper shape as a shingle but made thicker like a shake. They are sawn on both sides for a tailored look with a thicker butt for a sharp shadow line. Made from clear heartwood; available in 18 and 24 lengths.
